

Coachfield Psychotherapy

Volker Patent

Privacy Notice

Introduction

Your privacy is very important to me and you can be confident that your personal information will be kept safe and secure and will only be used for the purpose it was given to me. I adhere to current data protection legislation, including the General Data Protection Regulation (EU/2016/679) (the GDPR), the Data Protection Act 2018 and the Privacy and Electronic Communications (EC Directive) Regulations 2003. This privacy notice tells you what I will do with your personal information from initial point of contact through to after your therapy has ended, including:

- Why I am able to process your information and what purpose I am processing it for
- Whether you have to provide it to me
- How long I store it for
- Whether there are other recipients of your personal information
- Whether I intend to transfer it to another country,
- Whether I do automated decision-making or profiling, and
- Your data protection rights.

I am happy to chat through any questions you might have about my data protection policy, and you can contact me via [insert preferred method of contact] 'Data controller' is the term used to describe the person/ organisation that collects and stores and has responsibility for people's personal data. In this instance, the data controller is me. I am registered with the Information Commissioner's Office [ZA794885]. [Dr Volker Patent]. Address details and telephone number can be provided on request.

My lawful basis for holding and using your personal information

The GDPR states that I must have a lawful basis for processing your personal data. There are different lawful bases depending on the stage at which I am processing your data. I have explained these below: If you have had therapy with me and it has now ended, I will use legitimate interest as my lawful basis for holding and using your personal information. If you are currently having therapy or if you are in contact with me to consider therapy, I will process your personal data where it is necessary for the performance of our contract. The GDPR also makes sure that I look after any sensitive personal information that you may disclose to me appropriately. This type of information is called 'special category personal information'. The lawful basis for me processing any special categories of personal information is that it is for provision of health treatment (in this case counselling, psychotherapy and hypnotherapy) and necessary for a contract with a health professional (in this case, a contract between me and you)

How I use your information

General information relating to use of digital communication platforms.

If you contact me via my Facebook or Instagram messengers I use third party services, and I recommend you do not disclose personal sensitive information via these channels. My email provider is proton which uses high level of encryption. Personal sensitive information, such as what you need help could be more safely shared there. I would always recommend keeping your emails short. We can then discuss personal and sensitive information more securely without risking confidentiality or access to information by third parties.

Initial contact.

When you contact me with an enquiry about my counselling services, I will collect information to help me satisfy your enquiry. This will include contact information, some details about the nature of the enquiry, some personal information such as age, place of residence and any other personal information you provide. Alternatively, your GP or other health professional may send me your details when making a referral or a parent or trusted individual may give me your details when making an enquiry on your behalf. If you decide not to proceed, I will ensure all your personal data is deleted within 3 months. If you would like me to delete this information sooner, just let me know.

While you are accessing counselling.

Rest assured that everything you discuss with me is confidential. That confidentiality will only be broken if

- there is a serious concern for your or someone else's safety, particularly if a child is at risk of serious harm.
- there is a legal obligation relating to your involvement in, or knowledge of, a serious crime.
- there is a court order requesting information about you.
- it is essential to prevent a serious and imminent threat to either public health or national security.
- I become incapacitated or die. I have appointed a clinical executor who can access client details, my notes, and data to ensure clients are informed, and as required records are destroyed in accordance with the law and professional standards, and any liabilities settled.

Where possible, though, I will always try to speak to you about this first, unless there are safeguarding issues that prevent this.

I will keep a record of your personal details to help my therapeutic service run smoothly. These details are kept securely in a secure, locked safe and are not shared with any third party. I will keep written notes of each session, these are kept in a locked cabinet, with personally identifying information removed – the key for which is stored in the safe. For security reasons I do not retain text messages for longer than the next therapy session. If there is relevant information contained in a text message I will store this with your notes but without details of the telephone number and names removed. Likewise, any email correspondence will be deleted 1 year after our last session. if it is not important. If necessary, I will retain copies and store them in an encrypted folder on an encrypted device which will be kept in a locked safe location.

After counselling has ended

Once counselling has ended your records will be kept for 7 years from the end of our contact with each other and are then securely destroyed. If you want me to delete your information sooner than this, please tell me. Third party recipients of personal data

Third party recipients of personal data

I sometimes share personal data with third parties, for example, where I have contracted with a supplier to carry out specific tasks. In such cases I have carefully selected which partners I work with. I take great care to ensure that I have a contract with the third party that states what they are allowed to do with the data I share with them. I ensure that they do not use your information in any way other than the task for which they have been contracted and if relevant to your own experience of therapy.

Your rights

I try to be as open as I can be in terms of giving people access to their personal information. You have a right to ask me to delete your personal information, to limit how I use your personal information, or to stop processing your personal information. You also have a right to ask for a copy of any information that I hold about you and to object to the use of your personal data in some circumstances.

You can read more about your rights at www.ico.org.uk/your-data-matters

If I do hold information about you I will:

- give you a description of it and where it came from.
- tell you why I am holding it, tell you how long I will store your data and how I made this decision; • tell you who it could be disclosed to
- let you have a copy of the information in an intelligible form. You can also ask me at any time to correct any mistakes there may be in the personal information I hold about you.

To make a request for any personal information I may hold about you, please put the request in writing addressing it to info@coachfield.

If you have any complaint about how I handle your personal data, please do not hesitate to get in touch with me by writing or emailing to the contact details given above. I would welcome any suggestions for improving my data protection procedures. If you want to make a formal complaint about the way I have processed your personal information you can contact the ICO which is the statutory body that oversees data protection law in the UK.

For more information go to www.ico.org.uk/make-a-complaint.

Data security

I take the security of the data I hold about you very seriously and as such I take every effort to make sure it is kept secure. For digital data I use encrypted devices, and services and for physical notes I use a locked filing cabinet.

Visitors to my website

When someone visits my website, I use a third-party service, wix.com and google analytics to collect standard internet log information and details of visitor behaviour patterns. I do this to find out things such as the number of visitors to the various parts of the site. This information is only processed in a way that does not identify anyone. I do not make, and do not allow wix.com to make, any attempt to find out the identities of those visiting my website. I use legitimate interests as my lawful basis for holding and using your personal information in this way when you visit my website.

I use wix.com as the content management system for my website - find out about <https://www.wix.com/about/privacy> and data protection. Like most websites they use cookies to help the site work more efficiently – You can opt out of any cookies collect. No user-specific data is collected by any third party. If you fill in a form on my website, that data will be temporarily stored on the web host before being sent to my encrypted email address.